

Editorial

FIRST THINGS is America's premier journal of religion and public life. It begins with the premise that to understand American society—and where it is headed—it is necessary to understand its religious life and values. FIRST THINGS' broad coverage of religious and cultural issues

“A GENERATION OF ORTHODOX, ENGAGED CHRISTIAN WRITERS WAS LAUNCHED BY FIRST THINGS.”
— National Catholic Register

encompasses politics, economics, ethics, education, science, and literature and the arts. Though concerned with issues of great seriousness, FIRST THINGS is lively, readable, and entertaining.

FIRST THINGS is for Catholics, Protestants, Jews, Muslims, and more. We make a point of being ecumenical and interreligious, engaging all the questions pertinent to “religion, culture, and public life.”

Principals

The founding editor in chief of FIRST THINGS was Richard John Neuhaus, theologian, celebrated public intellectual, and author of many books, including the groundbreaking The Naked Public Square. Father Neuhaus died in January 2009 leaving a legacy of reinvigorated religious debate in our public life.

The editor of FIRST THINGS is essayist, poet, and commentator Joseph Bottum, whose books include The Fall & Other Poems and The Pius War. The former literary editor of the Weekly Standard and professor of medieval philosophy, Bottum has written essays, reviews, and poetry for the Atlantic Monthly, the Wall Street Journal, the Washington Post, and many other newspapers, magazines, and journals. For three years the host of the nationally syndicated radio show Book Talk, he has been featured on television programs from C-SPAN and CNN to PBS and the BBC.

FIRST THINGS' editorial board is composed of some of the most distinguished names involved in the world of values and public life: Claudia Anderson, Midge Decter, Jean Bethke Elshtain, Robert P. George, Timothy George, Mary Ann Glendon, Glenn Loury, Wilfred M. McClay, David Novak, Michael Novak, and George Weigel.
